Junior Park Rangers scheme encourages children to get involved in the future of their local park

Park-loving youngsters are helping to shape the future of one of Waltham Forest's premiere parks.

The Junior Park Rangers initiative has been launched so that more young people can enjoy the borough's open spaces and respect their local parks.

The scheme encourages pupils at four local primary schools to value their parks, do their bit to look after them and use them more. Some pupils will also be given the chance to help influence the design of the new Lloyd Park play area.

Junior Park Ranger Roman Hadari, said: "I come to Lloyd Park a lot and every time I visit it is good here.

"I like to look after the plants and the facilities that people like to use. I have learned a lot, looking after parks is a very good thing to do because they help us live peaceful lives, help you keep healthy and let you do activities."

Participating schools get three educational sessions in the park and a resource pack to continue learning in the classroom. Pupils learn about the park and decide how they would improve it if

Trustee - Voluntary Action Waltham Forest

As a trustee of Voluntary Action Waltham Forest I regularly attend the borough's Voluntary Sector Forum (VSF). At the VSF meeting on 24 March the topic under discussion was the 2012 Olympics, which gave me an opportunity to speak about what I see as the exciting potential for cultural expression they offer our borough. There is, understandably, a concentration on the sporting element of the Games but they also contain a strong cultural dimension in the shape of the Cultural Olympiad.

The founder of the modern Olympic Games, Baron Pierre de Coubertin, envisaged a celebration of human achievement that, as in classical times, included culture. This is enshrined in the Olympic Charter, the first of whose Fundamental Principles is: "Olympism is a philosophy of life, exalting and combining in a balanced whole the qualities of body, will and mind. Blending sport with culture and education, Olympism seeks to create a way of life based on the joy of effort, the educational value of good example and respect for universal fundamental ethical principles."

Culture was a major part of London's successful bid to host the Games - rightly so given the huge amount of world-leading cultural activity in our capital city. There was, though, a debate about how best to roll this out at local level in the communities of the five Host Boroughs of Greenwich, Hackney, Newham, Tower Hamlets and Waltham Forest. After a rather shaky start the Cultural Olympiad is now getting into its stride, given added impetus by the recent appointment of a new Director, Ruth Mackenzie. There is also the annual CREATE summer festival which will reach a crescendo in 'Games Time' and leave a permanent cultural legacy for East London.

This year CREATE 10 will take place from Saturday 19 June to Sunday 1 August and local cultural organisations and individual artists have already been invited to sign up for inclusion in the festival programme, which will have a print distribution of 100,000 copies. The vast majority of events will be free and open-air. All we need now is a good summer!

Children enjoyed playing sports in Walthamstow Town Square

Good at sport? That's a relief

- Walthamstow Town Square hosts a party to celebrate Sports Relief
- Over £31m raised nationally so far but you can still donate

While millions around the country tuned in to watch events unfurl on television, Waltham Forest residents showed the UK their Olympic spirit by turning up in their droves despite the gloomy weather, to celebrate Sports Relief in Walthamstow Town Square.

The event, on Saturday 20 March, saw sporty-minded folk enjoy games of football and basketball in the square, alongside entertainment from stilt-walkers, balloon-benders and even an opera singer.

The BBC Live Site - the Town Square's outdoor television screen - had its own little part to play too, as residents could enjoy an interactive game of A Question of Sport on the big screen, as well as live rugby.

So far over £31m has been raised for Sports Relief in 2010, and the money will go towards helping transform the lives of poor and vulnerable people, both at home and across the world's poorest countries.

Don't miss the chance to vote

- Deadline for the 6 May elections is 20 April
- If you aren't on the Register of Electors you will not be able to vote

Time is running out if you want to ensure you are eligible to vote in this year's local and national elections.

The elections are fast approaching and people who want to vote need to make sure they are eligible to do so very soon. If your name is not on the electoral register, you cannot cast a vote in either the local government elections on 6 May, or the forthcoming general election – which has to take place by June this year.

If you don't think you are on the Register of Electors you can contact Waltham Forest Council's Electoral Services team, or download and fill in an application form from the Council's website.

Once you are on the register, you can apply for a postal vote and save yourself the worry of having to actually visit your local polling station on polling day, or if you'd prefer, apply for a proxy vote and appoint someone to vote on your behalf.

If you do apply for your name to be added to the Register of Electors or for a postal vote, then your application needs to be returned to the Electoral Registration Officer at the Town Hall by Tuesday 20 April.

If you are already on the Register of Electors you will receive a "Poll Card" after the election is called. If you are not a postal voter, your Poll Card will give you details of your polling station.

Polling Stations are open from 7am to 10pm on the day of the Election.

Rubble rousers

Residents, police officers and convicted criminals dusted off their sledgehammers and got to work demolishing walls on a Chingford estate to make residents feel safer. People living on the Chingford Hall estate had complained about anti-social behaviour and many people avoided the garages and parking areas after dark because high walls enclosed the area and encouraged car crime, drug dealing and anti-social behaviour. Community Payback Scheme, Safer Neighbourhood Team, Better Neighbourhood Initiative and residents joined forces to remove the offending wall, and the resulting three skips of rubble, after Ascham Homes gave permission for it to be felled.

Village is blooming marvellous

Walthamstow Village Residents Association (WVRA) celebrated their entry in the Royal Horticultural Society's Britain in Bloom competition with a plant and seed swap on Saturday 27 March.

Residents were encouraged to bring along pots, plants and seeds and swap them for something different. Throughout the day the group ran free children's workshops planting sunflower seeds and gardening expert Graham Sherman was on hand to answer horticultural questions and offer advice to green-fingered locals.

Last September WVRA achieved a silver-gilt award and was awarded best Urban Community 2009 in the RHS London in Bloom competition. They are now finalists in the national RHS Britain in Bloom 2010 competition. London in Bloom judges will visit Walthamstow Village during July, and Britain in Bloom judges will visit during August.

The WVRA is encouraging people living in the village to enter their gardens and premises in the competition, and everyone entering will be awarded a certificate of participation. Anyone can enter, as there are categories for front gardens, balconies, window boxes and containers. The only rule is that your entry must be seen from the street or be open to the public.

Local stars shine at mini marathon

Waltham Forest's sporting future looks in safe hands if the East London Mini Marathon results are anything to go by. The event, which took place on Sunday 14 March at Redbridge Cycle Centre, saw over 60 runners from Newham, Redbridge and Waltham Forest take part in six races, with Waltham Forest taking gold in five, and silver in the other. The stunning display means the borough retained the Borough Challenge trophy for the third year. The top eight runners in each age group will now represent Waltham Forest in the Virgin London Mini Marathon on 25 April.

The vinyl countdown: dust off your turntable for Record Store Day on 17 April

Wax ecstatic

- World Record Store Day takes place on 17 April
- Borough's own independent music retailers offer a wealth of audio treats

While industry naysayers have been harping on about the death of the music industry there are still a fair few folks out there who prefer visiting ye olde record shoppe to clicking away on iTunes.

Saturday 17 April marks the third annual Record Store Day, which celebrates independent record shops worldwide and sees artists old, new and even deceased releasing special one-day-only items and playing one-off gigs to mark the occasion.

While those in the know will doubtless be beating a path to the likes of Rough Trade to snag collectable goodies by the likes of Jimi Hendrix, Neu! and the Thermals on the day, we here at Waltham Forest News would ask you to remember the borough's own independent retailers and spend your cash locally when you next want to scratch your musical itch.

There's plenty of treats on offer for the savvy shopper prepared to put in a bit of legwork in and around Walthamstow, with Cavern Records (163-165 High Street, Walthamstow E17 7BX) offering an array of rock, indie and chart releases alongside bucketloads of DVDs. While not strictly "shops" you've also got a handful of dedicated market stalls along the same stretch offering everything from dub to easy listening, while just round the corner there's Direct Impact (158 Hoe Street, Walthamstow E17 4QH) which specialises in all things roots, reggae, soul, soca and R&B.

A bit more off the beaten track but certainly more than worth a visit is Wood Street's indoor market (Wood Street, Walthamstow E17 3HX), which presents the patient trawler with a treasure trove of independent retailers selling second-hand records, CDs and DVDs that cover all bases from dance and hip hop to blues, rock and classical. Happy shopping!

Fact file

- Record Store Day was founded in 2007. The event takes place on the third Saturday of April
- Last year's event saw such major names as Bob Dylan, Tom Waits and Leonard Cohen give the event their blessing, just three of the 500 bands or artists to lend their support with special one-off releases or performances
- Artists confirmed as putting out special Record Store Day releases this year include Soundgarden, the Fall, Pavement, Bloc Party and the Yeah Yeah Yeahs
- If you're looking for live action, the Rough Trade East (Dray Walk, 91 Brick Lane E1 6QL) will be hosting in-store performances throughout the day, as well as a cake sale and classic rock facepainting

2012 Basketball Arena gets “big lift”

- 35 metre structure is taking shape on the Olympic Park
- Arena on track for completion next year

The ten-storey high Basketball Arena is taking shape

The 12,000 seat London 2012 Basketball Arena is now a sight to behold on the Olympic Park, with the first of 20 ten-storey high steel arches already lifted into place.

The start of the “big lift” - as it is known on the Park - took place last month. Once the 1,000-tonne steel frame of the Arena is complete, it will be wrapped in 20,000 square metres of fabric, which will form a canvas for an innovative changing lighting design during the Games.

The temporary seating and accommodation around the venue will start to be installed later this year, with the Arena on track for completion by next summer.

During the Games, the Arena will host Basketball preliminaries and women's quarter-finals and Handball quarter-finals, semi-finals and finals. During the Paralympic Games it will host Wheelchair Basketball and Wheelchair Rugby.

The Arena will also house the athletes before they make their way down to the Stadium for the Opening and Closing Ceremonies.

Elsewhere on the site, work continues at a pace, with the stylish Velodrome - which will house the Olympic cycling events - now into its second year of construction and becoming a greater spectacle every day.

The Olympic Stadium itself, the centrepiece for the whole 2012 Olympic and Paralympic Games, will also be quite literally under the spotlight this month, when the last of its floodlights are lifted into place.

Mini Olympics

Pupils from Village Pre-School, Walthamstow, got into the Olympic spirit at the end of March, when they held their very own Mini-Olympics. The sponsored event was held to help raise cash for Sports Relief and for some sports equipment for the pre-school. Youngsters got to grips with different activities including an obstacle course, sack race, scooter race and the Mini Olympics long jump, before parents got to join in the fun with a potato and spoon race. As well as raising money for two very worthy causes, the event helped the children to learn about the world around them whilst developing their physical skills.

Lift It and Lock It

Home Security

- If you have a UPVC front door it is likely that you will have a multi point locking system on the door. It is VITAL that you engage the locks correctly when you go out AND while you are at home. Unfortunately if the locks aren't correctly engaged, your door may be insecure.
- To correctly engage the locks, close the door securely and lift the handle. This will make sure the door is locked at all the locking points. Secure the 'lock' by turning the key.
- Your door is then correctly locked and secured as much as is possible.
- Remove the key from the lock. Make sure you know where it is so you can get out in an emergency. Never leave your keys so they are visible from your front door.

Waste facilities have been given a £258 million boost to reduce the amount of rubbish being sent to landfill. The North London Waste Authority (NLWA) has been awarded £258.4 million in Private Finance Initiative credits from DEFRA. The project will divert 400,000 tonnes of biodegradable rubbish from landfill each year by 2020. NLWA is also committed to a long-term recycling and composting rate of at least 50 per cent to be achieved by 2020. These initiatives will make an important contribution to NLWA's total potential diversion from landfill. Waltham Forest is one of seven London boroughs that make up the NLWA.

WE'RE WIPING OUT FLY-TIPPING

Now you see it...

Big Clean Ups target grime

- Two projects to tackle fly-tipping completed as part of Big Clean Up
- Projects in Chingford designed to make the borough a nicer place

Two Big Clean Ups designed to tackle environmental crime and make Waltham Forest a more pleasant place to live have been completed by the Council.

The clean ups, which are part of the Wiping out enviro-crime campaign, targeted fly-tipping and anti-social behaviour hot-spots in the woodland in Folly Lane, and the disused toilet block on the corner of Church Road and Villiers Close.

The work in Folly Lane has completely cleared the site of waste. Installation of a new barrier has also been completed to prevent further fly-tipping, which was destroying the wildlife habitat in the area.

Meanwhile demolition of the disused toilet block has begun, after the Council and London & Quadrant Housing agreed the block should be torn down and the area revamped. Work has started to level the land, pave the area and turn it into a garden for residents who will be encouraged to help maintain it.

The Council's Wiping out enviro-crime Campaign aims to tackle littering, fly-tipping, graffiti and dog fouling in Waltham Forest.

If residents spot enviro-crime being committed they are urged to report it to the Council, and could be eligible for a cash reward if their information results in a prosecution.

Strike out a light

- Youngsters at Church Hill Nursery turn out their lights for Earth Hour
- Earth Hour calls on people to extinguish their lights for an hour to make a stand against climate change

Environmentally friendly youngsters at Church Hill Nursery went green on Friday 26 March when they did their bit for the planet and took part in Earth Hour.

One hundred children at the nursery in Woodbury Road, Walthamstow, learned about the environment, Earth Hour and different types of light sources such as glow sticks, torches and candles.

They experimented with the different types of lights in a specially darkened room when the nursery's lights were extinguished between 2pm and 3pm.

Outreach teacher Andrew Ludington said: "It's important for the children to understand sustainability at a young age, whether it is recycling or self-sufficiency.

"It helps set them up with good habits for life. A lot of the children go home and talk to their parents and switch off lights and turn off taps, it has a real impact on them at this age."

Earth Hour is a World Wildlife Fund initiative that originated in Sydney, Australia, in 2007, when 2.2million homes and businesses turned off their lights to make a stand.

By March 2009, the initiative had spread to countries all over the world and 4,000 cities in 88 countries took part, officially making it the world's largest global climate change initiative.

Earth Hour took place on Saturday 27 March in the United Kingdom this year. Waltham Forest Council buildings, such as the Town Hall, extinguished their lights for sixty minutes.

Council to join roadwork permit scheme

Waltham Forest has signed up for a scheme that aims to reduce the amount of disruption caused by roadworks on the borough's streets. The London Permit scheme works by forcing utility companies to apply for permission to dig up roads, allowing councils more power to plan and coordinate the timing of roadworks and ensure multiple companies can work on the same stretch of road simultaneously. It is estimated roadworks cause traffic delays costing the London economy £1 billion a year.

All ESOL learners follow the national ESOL adult core curriculum. All learners work towards national ESOL qualifications awarded by Edexcel. For more information about the ESOL core curriculum, see www.dfes.gov.uk/curriculum_esol

- Some classes on weekday mornings and afternoons have crèches for children aged between twelve months and five years.
- We interview all learners before offering them a class.
- Learners who want enrol on ESOL courses need to put their names on a waiting list.
- Learners receive a card through the post inviting them to an interview.

Please go to www.walthamforestclass.gov.uk for information about classes starting in September 2010

CITIZENSHIP - PREPARATION FOR THE TEST

This course is aimed at people who are applying for British citizenship and who want help in preparing to pass the on-line citizenship test. By the end of the course you will have studied and discussed Life in the United Kingdom - A Journey to Citizenship, on which the citizenship test is based. This includes

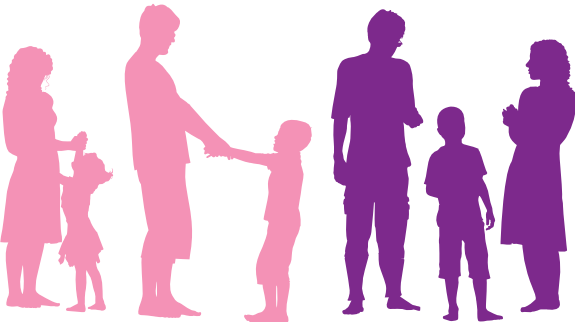

- The history of migration to Britain
- A profile of Britain today - population, ethnic diversity, religion, regional differences, the changing role of women
- Customs and traditions
- How Britain is governed

This course is only suitable for people with an intermediate level of English (minimum good Entry 3 level). If you have no English or very little English you are not required to pass the on-line citizenship test when applying for citizenship. Are you willing to move to a smaller property?

If your council or housing association property has become too large for your needs, Housing Services can help you to move to smaller, more suitable accommodation with fewer bedrooms.

There are a number of ways we can help:

- We can help you to bid for properties through Choice Based Lettings.
- You may be able to swap your home with another tenant through HomeSwapper.
- If you are sixty years old or over, we can help you access properties in the country or by the sea (Council tenants only).
- We can also help you access sheltered accommodation.

And there's a little something to help you with your move:

- We will pay £1000 for the first bedroom you give up, and £500 for subsequent bedrooms, up to a maximum of £3000.
- We will pay your removal costs if you use the Council's service.
- We will pay you £50 to help with reconnection of your utilities.

Quizzers care

Chingford residents are set to raise cash for charity while they exercise their grey matter at a quiz evening in aid of Breast Cancer Care. The fundraising evening will take place at St Edmunds Church Hall, Chingford Mount Road, on Saturday 17 April. Entry to the event, which starts at 7pm, is £7.50 per person and includes a tasty ploughman’s supper. Organiser Dot Gleeson said: “I’ve had breast cancer and it can be devastating when you are told. I was so worried when I was diagnosed, but when I phoned Breast Cancer Care talking to them gave me such a different attitude – they were brilliant.” So why not go along, test out your general knowledge and raise money for a very good cause?

- To book a place, call Joyce on 020 8527 5111.

Shine on

Members of the clergy and congregation from five of Chingford’s churches were shining shoes by the fountain in Albert Crescent, South Chingford on Maundy Thursday (1 April). The group were shining as a modern-day symbolic representation of Jesus washing disciples’ feet the day before the first Good Friday. The event was an initiative of Churches together in South Chingford, which brings together churches of different denominations.

World Peace Concert

Young musicians from around the world gathered at Chingford Assembly Hall on Monday 29 March for a concert to promote world peace. Japan’s Gunma Youth Orchestra, five members of the Thai Youth Orchestra and two Albanian musicians joined Waltham Forest Music Service’s Youth Orchestras to form a massive symphony orchestra. They performed classical masterpieces by Rachmaninov and Bach, and music from films to rapturous applause from the appreciative audience. The initiative came from Mr. Minami of Gunma, Japan, who has toured the world with Japanese youth orchestras for over 20 years, using music as a language for peace.

GP catchment areas could be abolished

NHS Waltham Forest is asking residents to help decide the future of GP boundaries. At the moment if you want to register with a GP, you have to live in their catchment area. Most of us are happy to be registered with a practice near our homes, but what if you leave for work early in the morning and don't get home until late? Perhaps you have a condition that can be better treated by a GP a little further away. Last year, the government announced its intention to abolish the current system of GP catchment areas, and give people more choice about where they can register with a doctor. You can let the Department of Health know what you think by taking part in a public consultation.

While they're busy gearing up for this year's Waltham Forest Literature Festival, the borough's libraries have a pressing question for residents of all ages: what's your favourite book and why?

Whether you're an avid bookworm burrowing through two or three weighty tomes a week, or simply like a well-honed page-turner to keep you occupied on the beach on your summer holidays, nearly everyone's got a book they'd nominate as their number one read.

While it can be hard to pick just one Great Read we'd like residents to have a go and tell us what theirs is and why.

Waltham Forest's Great Reads campaign aims to tap into this common love and find out the borough's top ten books for adults and children. The results will be totted up in time for the launch of the Literature Festival on 13 May with the results displayed and the books bought in for hundreds of other residents to read and enjoy.

While it can often be hard to pick just one Great Read we'd like residents to have a go and tell us what theirs is and why – after all, it's a great way to spark debate, encourage others to pick up the book you've chosen and perhaps find a new favourite of your own.

Waltham Forest Literature Festival will run from 13-22 May and will see literary events taking place across the borough, including talks from authors, readings, poetry sessions and plenty of fun events for younger readers.

WWE Superstars Ted DiBiase and the Million Dollar Man with competition winner Elisha

WrestleMania superstars' surprise visit

- Wrestlers throw their weight behind the importance of reading
- Competition promotes the importance of an education for all jobs

Ted DiBiase in the ring

Weighing in at 235lbs and often found wearing little more than boots and pants, World Wrestling Entertainment (WWE) superstar Ted DiBiase is far from your average English teacher.

That would explain then, why Lammas School pupils looked a little shocked to see him turn up at their school last month.

Ted gave an assembly with his father - WWE legend the Million Dollar Man - as part of the WrestleMania Reading Challenge.

Doing what I do gives me a platform, so when you talk about the importance of reading, kids really listen.

The Challenge, run with the National Literacy Trust (NLT), invites pupils to read five books within a term and then submit 100 words to persuade another WWE star to read their favourite book.

Year 11 pupil, Elisha Najak, won her school a visit from the superstars, and herself a once in a lifetime trip to Arizona.

She said: "I was shocked when I found out I had won. My teacher was screaming and the whole school kept congratulating me.

"Not everyone at school knew about the competition but when they saw the wrestlers, it made them want to get involved."

Ted added: "I'm wrestling now but first I got my education; if anything happens, I have that to fall back on.

"Doing what I do gives me a platform, so when you talk about the importance of reading, kids really listen."

Local pupils experience schools in Ghana

Two Walthamstow School for Girls pupils are seeing education in a whole new light after a trip of a lifetime to Ghana. Year 10 pupils Ronan and Rhiannon were sent to the West African country last month, after winning a nationwide competition designed to get more young people involved with campaigning and politics. Once there, the pair were charged with investigating why so many girls still do not receive a quality education in Ghana, and met with senior Ghanaian politicians to discuss what can be done to get more children into schools. Ronan said: "The school experience in Ghana was really interesting. The way they taught over there is obviously different to in England, but all the pupils are really eager to learn. The politicians told us that one day all children might have a good quality education, but it will be a slow process."

The GCSE pupils will report back their findings to the British government soon.

• Ronan and Rhiannon travelled to Ghana to raise awareness of the Global Campaign for Education. To find out more, visit www.campaignforeducation.org

- Contribution by Flava Press Gang.

Secondary pupils step up and dance

Over 100 pupils got to step up and showcase their moves at the borough's annual secondary school dance competition earlier this month. The event, arranged through the borough's three school sports partnerships, saw the Assembly Hall audience entertained with a dazzling display of diverse performances, from street dance and hip hop, right through to ballet and bhangra. Perhaps unsurprisingly, a number of the acts also paid tribute to the King of Pop himself, Michael Jackson. Year 10 pupil Sonia, from Walthamstow School for Girls, said: "This is all extra curricular but our school gives us the flexibility to fit our dance practices in around normal lessons. It's great fun."
